"We had SkillsCamp come and present 4 webinars for our webinar series on productivity hacks and personal branding and then they also came back to present in person at our annual conference. Working with skills camp was great – Bailey was so knowledgeable and also was a delight to work with - they are definitely the first company we go to when we want to engage learners in this area of expertise. If you are considering working with skills camp my advice is to do it. They are so knowledgeable, so professional and also very fun to work with."

SELECT CLIENTS

We had SkillsCamp speak to over 800 students about Professionalism in the Workplace as part of our professional development session for Ignite, the University of Windsor's Work Study program. Their workshop was engaging, fun, and informative. The emphasis on the importance of communication, teamwork, and resourcefulness allowed our students to gain a holistic understanding of what it means to be a professional in today's world of work. The "Millennial Mistakes" piece was especially eye opening and relatable. I am sure SkillsCamp's session will prove to be incredibly useful for our students as they embark on their new Work Study jobs.
